MAYOR LINES UP COUNCIL AGAINST U.D.

Devotes Half-hour Talk to Verbal Assault on Tribune and Union Station Proposal

FOUR ALDERMEN OPPOSE CITY HALL INTERVENTION

Resolution Demanding Rail Commission Dismiss City's Case Passes Easily

FOLLOWING debate of the union depot question at a special meeting of the common council Tuesday evening, in which Mayor A. A. Bentley was the principal speakey against the station campaign, a resolution was passed calling for dismissal of the union depot case before the railroad commission, filed in 1920 by a joint committee representing practically all of the civic organizations of the city.

Aldermen voting against the dismissal of the case were Anderson, Funk, Ellertson and Robinson. As attorney for Milwaukee road here, Alderman Mahoney was excused from the vote.

Mayor Assails Tribune

In declaring his stand on the union depot project here, Mayor Beatley took occasion in his half-hour speech before the council, in committee of the whole, to flay The Tribune for "vicious misrepresentation," particularly in reporting developments of the union depot activities. The mayor indicated that The Tribune was the first organization to suggest a union station here, but declared that the subject has never been "formally or intelligently" brought before the council for discussion.

In this connection the mayor referred to what he called a "secret conference" held at the La Crosse club between the Chamber of Commerce, railroad officials and A. M. Brayton, publisher of The Tribune, to which conference, he said, "your mayor or aldermen, as far as I know, were not invited." "We do not know what transpired at that meeting at the La Crosse club," he said. The mayor declared that following the "secret conference," Alderman Worth introduced a resolution requesting the city attorney to go before the railroad commission asking for a union station in the city. In explaining his reason for voting against the measure when the vote at that time stood at a tie in the council, the mayor stated that he was opposed to petitioning the commission for a union station when they knew nothing of what took place at the La Crosse club meeting.

To leave the decision of such matters of vital importance up to the railroad commission, Mayor Bentley said was a "direct violation of the principle of home rule," adding that matters of such vital importance should be settled by the city itself.

Continuing the mayor said, "I am not opposed to a union station, but I am opposed to the Nolen city plan. If I were forced to vote on the matter I would first ask where it was to be located and what percentage of expense the city of La Crosse would be called upon to assume, and no one in the city is capable of answering that question now. We have reliable information at hand that in the event of a decision of the railroad commission for a union station in La Crosse, it will be located on Mill street, instead of as directed in the present plans."

Complaining that a man in public office could no longer depend upon truthful representation of his position in public addresses, the mayor pointed out to the council that he had his own stenographer at the meeting to record his words, and he asked that his speech be made a part of the official record of the council. This the council voted to do. An effort on the part of The Tribune to procure a copy of the stenographer's report for publication on Wednesday failed. Mr. Bentley said that the report was not yet completed.

New Paper Public Benefaction

"I do not want any one to think that I would curb the splendid spirit of La Crosse's rich in attempting to do something for La Crosse," he said, "but before I vacate my office I would suggest that the rich people of La Crosse could in no better way serve the city than aiding in the establishment of a daily publication that would truly represent this city of 35,000 people." A little later he explained: "I ask for a dismissal of the union depot case to get the Chamber of Commerce out of a tight hole. They are in a precarious position, for those who applied for the construction

QUESTION SIX IN CONNECTION WITH DEATH OF TAYLOR

Gang of Alleged Bootleggers and Drug Peddlers Rounded up by Police

HOUSEKEEPER TELLS OF THREATS AGAINST LIFE OF FILM DIRECTOR

Says Men Claimed Taylor Had Injured their Business

LOS ANGELES, Calif. — Further questioning of six alleged drug peddlers and bootleggers as to their knowledge of the murder of William Desmond Taylor, film director, a month ago, was planned by the police and district attorney's office.

Their arrest was said to have been the result of a quarrel between one of them, Ray Lynch, 26, who said he was a gas-fitter, and their housekeeper, Mrs. John Rupp, known also, according to the police, as Mrs. May Lynch, and said by them to be an "eccentric."

The others gave their names, ages and occupations, as William East, 36, laborer; George Calvert, 25, gas-fitter; Walter Kirby, 23, property man at a motion picture studio; John Herkey, 25, sheet metal worker, and Harry Amorheim, or Aruheim, 27, chauffeur.

Threatened Taylor

The police said Mrs. Rupp had declared Kirby and Calvert had made open threats against Taylor, on the ground that he had "injured their business," which she declared was dispensing contraband drugs and liquors.

The six men have been held incommunicado since their arrest Tuesday and a police guard was thrown about the Rupp house throughout the day and night to prevent any attempt at communication with Mrs. Rupp, who was said to be ill.

Mrs. Rupp was reported to have told the police she had accused one of the men of having killed Taylor, and he had told her never to "mention that again." She also was reported to have told her landlady, Mrs. Edith Spitzer, the day after the murder, that she "knew who killed Taylor." Mrs. Spitzer was said by the police to have told them Mrs. Rupp had made such a declaration at that time.

Will Quiz Actress Again

The police practically confirmed reports that a witness called by them "Frenchy George," summoned before the district attorney, was a reputable teacher of the French language, who had been called into consultation by Mabel Normand, film actress, when she wanted an inscription in French engraved on a cigarette case. It was stated that another questioning of Miss Normand, who was one of the last persons to see Taylor alive, was planned. She is at Altadena, a suburb recovering from influenza and a nervous breakdown.

GUARANTEE OF SIX PER CENT TO ROADS EXPIRES MARCH 1

Period During Which Roads Can Ask Government Loans also Expires Wednesday

6 PER CENT CLAUSE SUPERSEDED BY NEW PROVISIONS OF ACT

Reasonable Return Shall be Provided by Rates Fixed by U. S.

WASHINGTON. — Two important changes in government policy toward the nation's railroads became effective Wednesday.

The section of the transportation act fixing six percent as the return on railroad properties which railroads are entitled to earn under interstate commerce commission regulations, expired March 1. Also the period expires during which railroads which were controlled by the government during the war are entitled to ask government loans to aid them in continuing operations after return to private management.

The six percent clause, generally called the guarantee provision, is superseded by the transportation act provisions which hereafter require the interstate commerce commission to make rates that will give railroads "a reasonable return on the value of property used in transportation."

The commission is expected, therefore, to define for itself what earnings constitute reasonable return and to make rates accordingly. The subject of the definition of reasonable return has already been taken up formally by the commission to secure arguments from railroads and interested parties to proceedings before it in relation to rate regulation.

Application from railroads desiring the government loans have been pouring into the commission during the last few days in the endeavor to get in before the limitation began.

HERE'S A MAN WHO DOESN'T THINK HIS TAX IS TOO HIGH

ST. PAUL, Minn. — Minnesota probably has the distinction of being the only state in the union that can claim a man who does not think he is over-burdened with taxation, according to M. D. Meyer, secretary of the state dairy and food commission.

In sending the one dollar egg license fee, imposed by the state, Arthur Irvine, Lake City, enclosed a note stating that, in his opinion, this license should be $25 annually instead of one dollar.

Yesterday was a most successful day in the Milk Week campaign.

The speakers' squad was out early and kept going until late.

The university speakers finished the rural school talks yesterday. As on Monday they divided up, taking different routes.

Miss Hall, working out of West Salem, covered the school en route to Mindoro, Burr Oak and Black Oak.

Miss Miller, leaving La Crosse started out South Salem road taking schools through Barre Crossing over into Hamilton and came in through town of Campbell.

Miss Meloche went out to Amsterdam Prairie, Holland and finished at Stevenstown. Each woman spoke in 11 schools between 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. They report excellent drivers and fine roads.

In City Today

This morning these same women spoke to all grade children in La Crosse public schools.

Yesterday at noon the Kiwanis club saw the milk film—the Four M's. Little Miss Marjorie Haydn of the Logan school made quite an impression with her earnest original oration as why young Americans should drink more milk.

Miss Burkhart, the county nurse, in a 10 minute talk clinched the facts and food value of milk. Every man present left the table tagged with a small milk bottle which bears this slogan: Me for milk, butter, cheese and ice cream.

At the Congregational church was held the father and sons supper last night. Everybody there was tagged with the little milk bottle tag. John Holley of the State bank receiving the quart bottle of milk prize.

Talk in Theaters

Only one boy, Paul Eider, was prepared to speak in the theaters last night, so the four girls carried off the palms making quite a hit with their four minute original orations and once again proved that old thread-bare idea that "girls should be seen and not heard."

The four little five-year-old lassies and buddies who ate the appetizing supper in Oyen's window late yesterday made a charming picture as they entered into the spirit of the occasion and smacked their lips for more.

All passers and many others who came especially to see, stood in the cold watching the children writing out the menus and admiring the high school posters.

Mr. Oyen has converted his window into a delightful blue and cream dining room. From the blue rug on the floor, the charming cream colored cane seated chairs, topped with blue to the walls of golden hue paneled in blue with their happy restful pictures of Dutch children is an artistic, homely room, designed to give anyone a healthy appetite.

The Community Council committee under whose auspices this window scene is being conducted each day were besieged by old and young to be allowed to eat what was left and some were quite unhappy when they told "there weren't gonta be any core."

Eats This Afternoon

This afternoon the youngsters from the Washburn school will have a well balanced nourishing basket lunch. The time of "these eats" is 4:30 every afternoon this week.

This afternoon is the Bodega club milk fest. It's safe to bet boys that the 100 "wanted" will be right there at "milking time."

Onalaska had a milk week program last night. The Milk Fairies play was given. Miss Meloche of Madison and Dr. Sarah Bangsberg, dean of women at the normal, were the speakers. The high school was filled with children and grownups.

$10 For the Best Guess On Date The Ice Goes Out

The annual speculation on this mooted topic in La Crosse-on-the-Mississip' is just about due. Sometime between now and next June the thick sheet of ice which covers the river between the bridges will begin to crack and heave, and suddenly it will break loose and go grinding and splashing down the river toward the gulf.

It will herald the arrival of spring. For us folks in La Crosse it is a surer sign of her arrival even than the first robin.

Just to increase the already keen interest in this annual sporting event the Tribune hereby offers a ten dollar bill to the resident of this community who can make the best prediction of the day and hour that the ice begins to move between the bridges.

Use the coupon below, and send it to the Contest Editor, Tribune. It costs nothing to enter. Everybody is allowed one guess. The contest is open for one week. No answers received at the Tribune office after noon Wednesday, March 8, will be considered.

Here's the coupon. What's your guess?

Devine was rushed to the St. Francis hospital where it was necessary to take several stitches in his head and lips. It was learned that no bones in his body were broken but that he sustained severe bruises about his body. However, physicians reported that he is not in a serious condition.

Officials at the yard master's office Wednesday stated that Devine was out in the yards taking numbers from cars, and because of the steam was unable to see the locomotive coming. He was struck and carried along the tracks for some distance before he was given assistance.

ARTHUR BESSEE NOW PLEADING INSANITY UNDER INDICTMENT

Man Who Married Marcellette Sieger of La Crosse Has an Examination

DENIES WRITING LETTERS RECEIVED BY WIFE HERE

Held on Charge of Passing a Fraudulent Check

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—Several letters filled with terms of endearment and all beginning "Dear Marcellette," were placed in the hands of Arthur H. Bessee here Saturday during the closing session of his examination before a commission of alienists at the court house but he denied writing any of them even after a dictation test in which he misspelled a second time words written incorrectly in the letters. Bessee is under indictment for defrauding the Noma Sales agency here out of a $2,650 roadster by passing a fraudulent check for $2,000 in part payment.

Denies Ceremony

The "Dear Marcellette" letters were written to Mrs. Marcellette Sieger Bessee of La Crosse, Wisconsin, to whom he was married on January 29, 1921, in that city. It was Bessee's second marriage and must have made only a fleeting impression on his mind because he denied the ceremony after the letters were given to the commissioners by Mrs. Leona Bessee of Rome, N. Y., his legal wife. Mrs. Bessee incurred the displeasure of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Annetta Bessee of Rome, N. Y., when she showed clearly that she has no desire to prevent the law from taking its course, due to Bessee's failure to properly provide for her and her two young children.

The attitude of Mrs. Bessee toward her husband precipitated a clash with her mother-in-law. Bessee's mother seemed stirred up because the wife had been subpoenaed as a witness and did the accused man considerable damage by her straightforward story of desertion and neglect.

Telegraphs Wife

Two telegrams to the La Crosse, Wisconsin, wife were read to Bessee and he denied authorship of them. They were brief messages of holiday congratulations, sent during the Christmas season of 1920, and bore the signatures of Bessee's mother and his two children. The Wisconsin bride notified the authorities here that Bessee had posed as a widower, and she forwarded a letter addressed to her own mother, in which permission was asked for the marriage, solemnized a year ago last month.

The investigation of Bessee's mental condition closed Saturday and the commissioners will prepare their report in a day or two for presentation to District Attorney Malpass. Supervisor Nathan Abelson, Dr. E. L. MacNamara and Dr. Murray Cain are members of the commission.

The eleven-year-old son of Mrs. Strunk is said to have cut Walker in the heart.

WOULD AVOID HEAVY DRAFT ON TREASURY

Sub-Committee to Work Out Plan by Which Large Payments Would be Deferred for Two Years

REMOVES CAUSE OF DISPUTE OVER BILL IN THE HOUSE

Immediate Funds Not Required; May Postpone Whole Question for Month

WASHINGTON—Elimination of the cash feature of the soldiers' bonus virtually was agreed upon Wednesday by republican members of the house ways and means committee.

Chairman Fordney announced that a special sub-committee of six had been named by unanimous agreement to "work out some plan that would not entail any large drafts on the federal treasury within the next two years."

Such a plan would make unnecessary any immediate bonus financing and would remove the cause of controversy in the house over the bill.

Bill in Two Days

The special sub-committee will meet Wednesday afternoon and Mr. Fordney said it was the belief that a measure could be made ready certainly within two or three days. He said it was possible details of the bill could be worked out at the first session.

Mr. Fordney heads the sub-committee and the other members are Representatives Green of Iowa, Longworth of Ohio, Hawley of New York, Treadway of Massachusetts, and Copley of Illinois.

Before deciding to appoint the sub-committee, the majority members again canvassed the whole situation. The compromise finally reached was said to have been by unanimous consent.

The majority members came to decision as to details but it was the general understanding that in the measure to be drafted the cash feature if retained would be made so much less attractive than the other features that there would be small demand for it.

After three hours of general discussion Tuesday, Chairman Fordney announced that the committee had reached no decision; and the situation at the opening of debate Wednesday was understood to be just where it was before the special tax program was brought forward by the special sub-committee, several weeks ago and subsequently disapproved by President Harding.

Among the possibilities of committee action Wednesday, it was said, was postponement of the whole question for a month.

FOUR ELECTROCUTED ON WEDNESDAY AT TENNESSEE PRISON

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—Charles H. Petree, Tom Christmas, Otto Stevens and John McClure were electrocuted at the state prison Wednesday morning, all in the space of twenty-five minutes, for the murder of George Lewis of Knoxville on May 30, 1921.

The men went to their deaths with prayers on their lips and all except Petree met death calmly. An hour before the execution Petree became ill.

PUBLIC UTILITIES FILING FINANCIAL REPORTS TO STATE

Further Investigation into Rates to be Based Upon Statements of Companies

GAS REDUCTIONS GRANTED IN THIRTEEN WISCONSIN CITIES

Decisions of Rail Board Pending in Three Cities

MADISON, Wis.—Public utilities Wednesday submitted their annual financial reports to the railroad commission showing the condition of their business during the year 1921. Upon the basis of these reports further investigations are expected into utility rates within the state, which have been reduced in a number of cities recently.

Whenever the finances of utilities show that there is opportunity for possible reduction without affecting a fair return on the investment, the commission institutes an investigation on its own motion.

Reductions in rates have been ordered by the commission within the past few months in Stoughton, Pond du Lac, La Crosse, Chippewa Falls, Eau Claire, Portage, Racine, South Milwaukee, Kenosha, Cudahy, Green Bay, Eau Claire and Chippewa Falls. Decisions are pending in Milwaukee, Waukesha and Janesville.

The rate cuts in the cities mentioned have all been for gas charges. With but little reduction in the cost of producing electric light and power, the commission has not yet found that general lowering of these rates is possible. Similarly street car fares and telephone charges are at the level set during the war.

Study of the financial reports today is expected to result in further investigation in some utilities with a view to reduction of charges.

BLIZZARD HITS THE SOUTHWEST STATES TRAINS ARE HALTED

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—The southwest suffered the inconvenience Wednesday of a snowstorm that has reached the proportions of a blizzard in many sections. Added to a high wind in many places, low temepratures generally aided in making the storm the worst this section has experienced in recent years, according to weather observers. Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri, North Arkansas, and Texas, are bearing the brunt of the storm, though it has spread to other states.

Trains were reported stuck in snowdrifts in South Central and Southeastern Kansas, the portion of the state reported to have suffered the worst snowfall. Virtually all sections of the southwest reported train service impaired.

WILLIE COLLIER'S BIG 'HOTTENTOT' OBRECHT OFFERING ON SUNDAY

When "The Hottentot," the world famous hit by Victor Mapes and Willie Collier, which is to be the special offering of the Obrecht stock players at the La Crosse theater was originally produced, with Willie Collier in one of the two leading roles, it was instantly recognized by the New York critics that Mr. Collier had hit upon one of the happiest vehicles of his entire stage career. The authors have been able to combine a real love story, dramatic suspense and that inimitable fund of irresistible fun that has made Collier famous from one end of the land to the other.

"The Hottentot," by the way, happens to be a race horse; a race horse, it may be added, who is not considered the biggest success in the world. But he has an all important bearing on one of the greatest love stories that has been written for the stage in many a moon.

The greatest interest in this big Broadway success, however, revolves about the comedy situations, brilliant, laughter provoking lines that run all the way through it. To sit through a performance of "The Hottentot" without rocking in your seats with merriment is an impossible accomplishment.

Individuality

Individuality is the salt of common life. You may have to live in a crowd, but you do not have to live like it, nor subsist on its food. You may have your own orchard, you may drink at a hidden spring. Be yourself, if you would serve others. — Henry Van Dyke.

GAVE HIS SON

FOR God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life.—John 3: 16.

Ship Subsidy and the Waterway

THERE is, perhaps, more than a little ground for the belief that a privately-owned American merchant marine will find hard sledding unless assisted by a government subsidy. For one thing, it has to meet subsidized competition from foreign shipping, and for another it must comply with certain labor and safety regulations which are above foreign standards as the American standard of living is above that of foreign countries. So a pretty good case may be made out for ship subsidies, looking at the matter only from the standpoint of the shipping interests.

However, shipping interests do not comprise all, nor even any great portion of the country, nor do the localities which benefit from the prosperity of shipping interests comprise any large section of the United States. Ship subsidy means the collection of money from all of the people to support an activity which, while it is undoubtedly of indirect value to the whole of the country, with equal certainty pays the major share of its profits into the pockets of a few, distributed in restricted centers along the coasts.

The ship subsidy proposal which is being considered in Washington proposes the segregation of an annual ten percent of the customs duties as a subsidy fund. This is a sum which every American will help to pay in increased costs of merchandise—we here in the middle west will pay a per capita share of it quite as large as the citizens of New York City or Hoboken. It would be a whole lot easier to pay if the middle west could see that some of the direct benefit of a subsidized merchant marine were coming its way. The east wants a ship subsidy—the west wants the St. Lawrence waterway which will bring ocean commerce to the Great Lakes. The way to a subsidy can probably be made much smoother if the east will drop its obviously selfish opposition to the waterway project and provide the mid-west with some direct reason for consenting to government aid of the merchant marine.

Long Live Bossy

ONE can hardly imagine an activity better fitted to engage the enthusiasm of La Crosse county than a Milk Week, such as is now so energetically in progress under the auspices of the Community Council, the Agricultural Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, and the farm interests of the county at large. For just as milk is a practical necessity for health and strength of human beings, so it is a vital element in the continued health and strength of this community. We are too likely, in the city of La Crosse with all its varied forms of business enterprise, to forget the bearing upon our prosperity of the fact that immediately outside our city limits begins one of the best known and most prolific dairy regions of a state world-famous for its dairy industry. The milk from La Crosse county herds, transmuted into good hard dollars, is the life blood of business in the city of La Crosse and in every business place in the county. When agricultural regions devoted to other branches of farming were prostrate under the blows of the last year or more it was the dairy industry of this county that made it one of the bright spots on the economic map of the country, that made La Crosse known in every business center as one of the few towns in the entire nation in which it could be truthfully said that business was good. It is no wonder that Milk Week strikes a responsive chord in La Crosse folks. We have reason to be strong for good old Bossy beyond the excellent arguments which the Milk Week propagandists have educed. "Milk makes bright eyes and rosy cheeks", but it also makes jobs and bank accounts. On both counts La Crosse county salutes this week's celebration.

Flying Fishes

YOU can't fish from an airplane now. Later you will—when inventive genius discovers how to make a flying machine stand still in the air. But the airplane even now is being used in the fishing industry. In British Columbia, salmon fishers adopt the seaplane for rapid inspection of hatcheries, spawning grounds and waters. The seaplane carries salmon eggs from hatcheries to lakes and rivers far distant from the coast. This permits a strategic distribution of baby salmon. It is like increasing the acreage planted in corn or wheat.

The airplane, eliminator of distance, time and geography, thus puts new life into the salmon industry. The help arrives in the nick of time. The salmon "catch" has been nearly cut in two since 1905.

Strange times we live in with fishermen using flying machines instead of ships and with man regulating the number of salmon born each year, usurping one of nature's functions. Quite natural, we comment. "How mighty is man!"

But look at one of nature's mysteries: A sockeye salmon hatches in one of the lakes of the Fraser watershed. It remains in the lake a year, then swims down the rivers to salt water. For three years it completely disappears in the ocean, no man ever having been able to figure out where it goes. Then, matured, it always returns to its birthplace, and never fails to get home, though the journey often is 2,000 miles. Back home, the sockeye salmon spawns. Returning to the ocean, it is purse-netted and trapped. The next stop is a tin can in your kitchen.

Why does the sockeye salmon, generation after generation, always remain in the ocean depths for the same length of time? How does it find its way thousands of miles back to its birthplace? These are mysteries of nature. Beside them, the use of airplanes by fishermen is rather a dull and tame event.

In Which We Try to Tell the Truth

MAYOR BENTLEY does the Tribune too much honor in accrediting to us the inception of the union station plan. We wish that it were so but for once we are going to tell the truth and admit that it isn't. The demand for a union station broke out simultaneously all over La Crosse before the embers of the old Milwaukee depot were cold on Christmas Eve in 1916. It was like a rash, and the Tribune in reporting the circumstance had nothing whatever on its contemporary, the Leader-Press. It is true, of course, that we have been consistently doing what we could to boost the union station project ever since, but so has practically every civic organization in town, including the Citizen's League, which Mayor Bentley helped to organize and which, when it took a referendum on the matter, showed by a conclusive majority that the membership of rank-and-file citizens, of which it justly boasted, was strong for a union station. We regret to have roused the mayor's ire in the matter, but such seems to be our luckless fate on many issues and probably there is nothing that can be done about it. At that, since the mayor insists that he is not against a union station per se, but only against the people that are for it and the way they are going about it and the plans that have been suggested for it, the difference between us may not be so great as His Honor's indignation might indicate. We're just for a union station where and how competent experts shall decide is feasible; Mr. Bentley is just against every practical method that is available for securing it. As to which is the more "vicious misrepresentation" of the will of the people we are willing to accept the verdict of the people themselves, as already rendered by the enthusiastic endorsements repeatedly given the union station committee's campaign by the organizations in which they have direct voice.

In Ye Olden Times

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

Among the eighteen students to complete eleven years of study March 10 at St. Francis Seminary in Milwaukee are Francis Kulig and C. E. Dowd of La Crosse. Members of the class will receive their orders from Sebastian G. Messmer. Deaconships will be conferred next Sunday and then the men will return to their own dioceses to be ordained.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Laughlin, 1447 Charles street, have returned from a trip to Alabama. Miss Ethel Corron returned with them.

Mrs. Joseph J. Weigel, Sr., a resident of La Crosse for forty years, died at her home, 1419 South Sixth street, early this morning. Mrs. Weigel came to this city in 1872.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

The floor in the room of the city hall occupied by the board of public works has begun to sag. The trouble is caused by the fact that the timbers which support the floors have weakened and caused the depression.

A. Chubb has moved to the second story of a store building on Charles street and intends to open a dry good store there in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Hankerson have gone to New Orleans to spend a few weeks.

William Doerflinger has leased the store building adjoining T. A. Lavake's grocery store on Rose street and will stock it with a full line of millinery and ladies' furnishings.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

There is a move on foot to have the city council take some action in regard to the hours of labor and the wages of street car drivers, and a document will soon be presented to the council for that purpose.

Moeller and Mattas have opened a new merchant tailoring establishment in the basement of the State Bank building.

A new fire escape has been placed on the Pearl street side of Hotel Law.

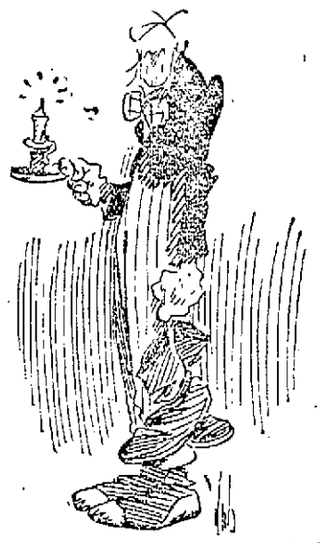

A new desk has been put into the county treasurer's office.

L. Coren has purchased the E. C. Daley residence on Cass street for $7,600. Mr. and Mrs. Daley will probably move to California.

The wagon bridge across Black river at McGilvray's Ferry was completed Saturday with the exception of the painting which will be done in the spring. One hundred people and ten teams were on the bridge at one time to test its strength.

The congregation of the German Lutheran church of North La Crosse is building a parsonage on Avon street.

No calamity is ever too sad an' distressin' fer some newspaper paragraphers t' try t' say somethin' funny about it. We didn' know Jake Bentley's brother was sick till we read that his trial wouldn' come up till next July.

One Who Dared

By CLARISSA MACKIE

"Did you hear him?" gasped Miss Fletcher as the district manager left the room. "Did you hear him Lucy?"

"Yes!" breathed mouse-like Lucy, as she resumed her rapid clicking of the typewriter keys.

"The—the big—goose!" substituted Miss Fletcher for a more descriptive word to apply to a chief who up to that moment had been the most polite and considerate of men; "all about some branches of bittersweet on my desk." She rearranged the brown twigs, heavy with rich red and orange fruit, and held her fingers in position to resume her work at any moment. "Barked at me, he did. Says he, 'What's that?' and I says, 'Bittersweet from the country, and all it needs is some wild clematis, all gray and feathery and—' 'Humph!' he barks again and goes off. What are you tittering at, Lucy Lee?"

"You are so funny, Jane! Try to bark 'Humph!' yourself and see—"

"You are shallow," interrupted Jane Fletcher, as she rattled the keys of her own machine, and drowned all further attempts at conciliation on the part of her co-worker, but occasionally her eyes roved to the closed door of the private office.

Behind that closed door, Cleve Larabee stood motionless, his broad shoulders blocking out the light from the western window. A wonderful view could be had from this high window—busy New York harbor—scores of ships coming and going—ferryboats, barges, fishing craft, the low, gray bulk of a torpedo boat destroyer—there was constant din of sirens and whistles and horns from street and harbor; an ocean steamer bayed its farewell, an ocean aeroplane droned overhead, sun flashing on its tilted wings. Beyond were the smoky hills of New Jersey.

Cleve Larabee saw nothing save a winding lane in October — frost touched leaves dropping around like tinted blossoms: the orange-red fire of bittersweet tangled with the curly gray tendrils of clematis, and Annabel Day—standing there. He turned from the window and sat down heavily in his chair. He had almost forgotten Annabel Day!

Fifteen years ago he had left Mossdale and sought a living in the city. His parents had been dead a year, he had little patrimony, and no prospects in the little Vermont village. So he had said good-by to Annabel refusing to bind her by any promise.

For a while they corresponded, but after a couple of years she had stopped writing. He believed her tired of waiting for him, and that some one else had won her love.

Strange to say it had never troubled him—by that time he had become immersed in pursuit of money—success. So great was the rush, so heated the competition that he never paused to analyze his own feelings. He had never married: his clubs and his office satisfied him: he was always a welcome addition to the parties of his friends, and his vacations were spent in the West, where his firm had valuable interests.

So he had come to be the district manager of a great corporation; and he had believed he was happy—until this afternoon when the sight of a branch of bittersweet had stirred up all the old boyish love of the countryside where he had been born and raised, and—where Annabel Day had lived and loved him.

His brooding eyes gradually came to notice the flat package on his desk—the name of a well-known photographer was in one corner.

Idly he lifted a knife and severed the string and opened the papers; half a dozen photographs were soon scattered around him, enlargements of smaller pictures—and now, everything vanished and he was back in the hill country again—on the right was the deep gorge filled with snow and on either side the tall hemlocks weighted with the fleece of winter, their tops seeming to touch the sky. Once when they were children he and Annabel had played these were Christmas trees and hung them with all sorts of bright baubles; before him was the slope of the mountain, snow capped and friendly, where the little birches ran down to the edge of the gorge; here to the left was a bit of autumn road—there, a glimpse of some quiet pond reflecting the old bridge and the bending willows—

Suddenly he woke up and gathered the photographs into a pile. Then he searched the wastepaper basket for the wrapping paper. An inquisitive office boy, opening the door to leave some letters withdrew hastily and glided to Jane Fletcher's desk.

"Boss is crazy as a loon," he confided.

"What is he doing now?"

"Grubbing in the waste basket—"

Furies! It makes me creep to hear about him," moaned the stenographer.

"Aw, he's in love That's nothin'!" gibed Jimmy as he boldly entered the district manager's office.

Mr. Larabee was tying up a package very carefully, and then he put on his hat and overcoat, and locked his desk and passed out of the office with a few words of instruction to his bookkeeper.

And the office breathed freer as the door closed gently behind him, for he was whistling cheerily as he went.

"So," mused the pale clerk at the photographer's as he scanned the photographs on the counter. "I remember now Mr. Kulow sent them over for your approval. They are very popular among people who are from Vermont. Great country up there, and this is fine photography. There's a girl up there who does it all herself—makes a good living at it, too—some artist, she is, too—see the grouping of those trees—and this that's a fine dog—goes with her everywhere, she says. We have a picture of her somewhere, there it is."

Cleve Larabee stared at the strong graceful figure vividly portrayed against a background of dark hemlocks, freighted with snow. She wore knickerbockers tucked into high boots, a heavy sweater and a man's hunting coat. A knitted cap revealed the soft masses of dark hair.

"Annabel!" muttered Larabee.

"That's her name," volunteered the clerk.

"It must be her daughter. I knew her years ago."

"She isn't married. Miss Annabel Day's her name, Mr. Larabee."

"How did you happen to send the pictures that she took to my office?"

The clerk pondered awhile; at last, "Oh, she wrote to Mr. Kulow and suggested that he send some of them to you—picked out the very ones you've had in your hand—that's all sir!"

"That isn't all, young man, it's only the beginning!" and the fully awakened Mr. Larabee dashed out to call a taxicab, for there was a train to be caught at once if he was to reach Mossdale in the morning. He must be there to meet Annabel, who had refused to grow old, who had dared to send the message of the pines to his dull life. And as the train sped northward his heart grew lighter, for he knew that his love was not dead, but that the snow had kept it warm and alive.

"The idea!" squealed Jane Fletcher when she received a box of the wedding cake.

"What did I tell you?" crowed the office boy.

ONE REEL YARNS

DOWN THE SLIDE

"No, I couldn't. I'm too big," Maurine protested.

"Aw, c'mon," her brother urged. "You used to coast with me and everything. What's got into you? 'Fraid of being a tomboy?"

"Yes, I am," said Maurine. "But—but I'll play with you for a little while. Professor Stinson is coming over for dinner tonight."

"You think a lot of him, don't you?" asked Floyd.

"I should say I do. He's quite the nicest old man father ever has over. I love to hear him talk about his experiences when he was on that Arctic exploring expedition. You know I've always been interested in exploring anyway. Wouldn't I just give anything if he would ask me over to see his collection some time!"

"Well, you'd better stop talking about him, if you get any time to play before he comes," said Floyd. "Go get your wraps on."

Maurine bundled up, and the two of them went out to coast down the hill in front of the house. It had been a long time since Maurine had romped. They ran up the hill and slid down gaily, threw snowballs and chased each other, having so much fun that they never noticed how the time was slipping by.

"My turn down," shouted Maurine. She picked up the sled, ran with it, and threw herself flat upon it. She went scooting down the hill so fast that she was at the bottom before she knew it, and she had to steer aside quickly, landing in a heap of snow, in order to avoid running into an old gentleman who was just coming across the street.

"Professor Stinson!" gasped Maurine.

"So this is the way you come to meet me," smiled the Professor.

Maurine stayed away from dinner on the excuse that she had a headache. She was moping in her room when there came a rap at the door. "Maurine," said her father, "I just wanted to tell you that Professor Stinson left word he'd like to have you go over to his house Sunday afternoon to see the collection he brought from his Arctic trip. He said he would have asked you before, but he thought you were just a tame little girl and wouldn't care for anything like that."

CROWFOOT

When the visitor to Canada goes westward on the Canadian Pacific Railway he comes to a broad river called the Bow. The point where the railway and the river meet is now called Gleichen, and the traveler probably pays no attention to the name. But the native Canadian, knowing the history of his country, remembers that this place was once called "Crowfoot," and as he leans out of the car window he seems to see again the Indian warrior for whom it was named.

He sees the wigwams of the Blackfeet tribe, which lived along the Bow River. Fifty years ago their chief was named Crowfoot. He was a powerful chief, and all the neighboring tribes bowed to his rule. But he was not a fierce warrior, and he soon gained the name of being the friend of the British. He kept the peace, and the white men knew they could rely upon his word.

When tribes all about were uprising and plotting, Crowfoot kept his people on friendly terms with the new masters of the land. In 1877 he made a treaty with the British guaranteeing peace in the territory which is now Alberta. And Crowfoot stuck by his agreement. He refused all temptations to drive out the British, and the people settled in the fertile country and built up their homes without fear.

Other Indians resented the coming of the North-West Mounted Police, but Crowfoot greeted them as friends and protectors and worked with them to do away with trouble in his territory.

That is why the old settler of Canada remembers the name of Crowfoot in connection with the Bow River, in spite of the new name.

It's easier for a boy to clean his teeth while he is a boy than to try to eat apples with false teeth when he is forty.

THE WISE BIRD

I wonder how the owl gets by
With all this "wisdom" stuff;
Most any one that stops to think
Can see he's just a bluff.

Because his eyes are big and round,
Folks think he must be wise,
Just like a man looks smart that wears
Those goggles o'er his eyes.

He never says a single thing;
He only questions, "Who?"
If asking questions shows you're smart,
I'm some young wise guy too!

I wonder if they think he's wise
Because he flies at night.
He misses all the shining sun
And daytime colors bright.

The owl is like some boys that have
No brains beneath their hat,
To make folks THINK they know so much,
They must be wise at that!

"Willie, I thought I told you not to play with your soldiers on Sunday."

"I know, mother, but on Sunday I play they are the Salvation Army."

Don't be ashamed of freckles and red hair. The sun put the freckles there, and the hair grew on you. But dirt behind the ears will come off if you get at it with a washrag.

Miss Jones (severely): "Percy, who is the laziest person in this room?"

Percy (innocently): "I dunno."

Miss Jones: "You ought to. Who is it, when everybody else is industriously studying, sits and watches the rest or looks out of the window?"

Percy (brightening): "Why, you, Miss Jones."

CENSORPROOF FILMS

La Crosse, Wis., Feb. 28, 1922.
La Crosse Tribune, La Crosse, Wis.

Censorship has spoiled many a good picture. Some of our greatest literary classics, that have been made into pictures, have been cut and slashed until only a vestige of the former story remains. Why should such a condition exist? If the story is fit to read, why not make the picture true to the author's ideals?

At the present time there is a great deal of agitation over the matter of censorship of motion pictures and being a lover of the photodrama I desired to express my opinion in hopes that it would bring expressions from others, through your columns.

If censorship is to spoil some of our truly great pictures let's have some that the censor board can't spoil. In other words let the producers make pictures from such books as Du Maurier's, "Peter Ibbetson"; Dickens' "Our Mutual Friend"; Dickens' "Oliver Twist" and many other stories on the same order. These stories, I think, would make excellent photoplays and be a radical departure from the usual run, being enjoyed by both old and young.

Can't we have some such pictures shown here in La Crosse?

5 tablespoons Mazola
3 tablespoons Lemon Juice or Vinegar
½ teaspoon Salt
1 teaspoon Sugar

Mix dry ingredients. Add Mazola and lemon juice or vinegar and beat until creamy. This dressing may be made in larger quantities and kept in a bottle and shaken as used. Some add a dash of mustard or Worcestershire sauce to flavor.

Many of the greatest experts prefer Mazola as a salad oil because it blends more perfectly with the other ingredients of the dressing. This is one reason why Mazola is so extensively used today by the best clubs and hotels as well as in dining cars, on lake steamers and trans-Atlantic liners.

FOUR DOLLARS ARE TURNED OVER TO CONSCIENCE FUND

MADISON, Wis.—The state "conscience fund" was increased by four dollars Wednesday when Henry Johnson, state treasurer, received four worn bills from E. E. Witte, secretary of the industrial commission.

The money had been mailed to the "Conscience Insurance Company," by some man who did not sign his name to a letter accompanying the contribution. Mr. Witte said that since he was unable to determine what company had made the payment, the money would be contributed to the "conscience fund."

"I am returning three dollars and fifty cents," the letter received with the four dollars said. "Thinking I might not be honestly entitled to it. Some years ago I got hurt and was laid up four or five days. I went to work and got some kind of a hurt some months later and was laid up seven or eight days more. Thinking some one had made a mistake I have returned four dollars instead of the check I received for $3.50.

PERMIT EXTENSION OF ELECTRIC PLANT IN KENOSHA COUNTY

MADISON, Wis.—The railroad commission Wednesday granted a certificate of public convenience and necessity to Walter Carey, granting him authority to extend his electric system into the town of Wheatland, Kenosha county. This is the first certificate granted by the commission in an electric utility to an individual, the law previously having been interpreted to permit only corporations to receive authorization to operate.

The Wisconsin Gas and Electric company opposed the petition of Carey for a certificate of convenience and necessity, arguing that as an individualhe is not competent to secure a permit under the Wisconsin statutes. The commission said that it did not deem it necessary to pass on the legal questions raised, but decided that public convenience and necessity required the extension of the service as proposed by Carey.

Interesting Features Mark Fathers' and Sons' Supper at Presbyterian Church

"The Joy of Being a Boy" was the toast which struck a responsive chord at the Fathers' Sons' and Brothers' supper, of the Men's Fellowship League of First Presbyterian Church on Tuesday evening. It was given by Master Will Bleakley, who said: "The fun of being a boy is that you can grow. While our fathers can not grow in height, they can grow in wisdom; if they want to. So we are all boys tonight, our pastor told the other Sunday, of an honored professor, upon whose tombstone was the line, 'He died learning and that's what all of us boys should want."

A second toast was given by Willard Nimocks to: "Our Teachers." He commended them for coming Sunday after Sunday without pay; and sometimes with very little encouragment, in attention or gratitude. "While most of the boys' classes in our main school are taught by men, there is one class which has a lady that they think the world of, it is Mrs. A. C. Millington. We all ought to stand up to night and say 'God bless our teachers'. At any rate, we can give three cheers." And then he led the crowd in a real high school "Hoo-rah; Hoo-rah."

Alfred Bedessem, next paid tribute to "Our Dads"; in a facetious way implying, that, while they were great men, they had to knuckle to the real "bosses" of the home: "Our Mothers." In part, he concluded: "Dad" is not an elegant word; but it is home-like and chummy. It makes us feel brave when we recall that dad is backing us up by giving us a home and encouragement to make the most of our lives every day. These dads have also provided this church where we come and hear of great men, whom God Almighty has used."

The principal speaker of the evening was P. M. Brink, well known local salesman and churchman; who gave some practical advice upon "Business Success and Christianity." He spoke out of thirty-one years experience as a commercial traveler; and was quite positive that it is possible to "be squarean d true, and yet to be successful in business." He traced the gradual evolution in higher standards of business ethics which are in general practice today, as compared with thirty years ago. Then, every salesman thought it necessary to "treat to the drinks" and was not popular unless he played the "hale-fellow-well-met." Honesty of statement and equality of prices were also cited as essential to lasting success. The religious element, in keeping a man's thoughts and motives high and clean, was also emphasized.

Walter Easterday recited an original Poem on "Prayer," and the Ever Ready Club, rendered some stirring musical selections, including some of the popular songs of the day. C. R. Pieper, presided; until after the annual election of officers; when the following where chosen: President, W. E. Walters; Vice President, H. E. Leithold; secretary, G. O. Lundgren; treasurer, E. S. Case. The sumptuous repast was served by the Mothers' Circle of the Church. Covers for a hundred were laid. Men present who had no son to bring were given the privilege of playing "big brother" to some of the boys of the Bible school, whose fathers were absent; hence the "Fathers'-Sons' and Brother" idea.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Rub Musterole on the Congested Parts

Grippe, "Flu," Pneumonia all start the same way—with a cold.

All colds are congestion and Musterole is a simple, counter-irritant which brings circulation back to normal and helps prevent serious developments.

Remember that messy old mustard plaster, how it stung and blistered! It did the work all right, but Oh, it was a stern measure! Musterole has all the healing properties of grandmother's pet remedy without the sting and blister.

Made of pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other soothing ingredients, it has been used by physicians for years for treating "Flu" Lumbago, Grippe, Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Headache and Pneumonia.

It was used in our training camps during the "Flu" epidemic a few years ago. The Y. M. C. A. sent thousands of jars to France for our soldiers over there.

At the first sign of a cold, get out the jar of good old Musterole and rub it gently on the congested parts. You will feel a warm tingling glow as it goes into the pores. That sensation will be followed by a cooling, soothing feeling that makes you more comfortable right away.

If you have fever, ache all over, take a hot bath, drink plenty of hot water, rub on Musterole, call a doctor and go to bed. Keep warm and get plenty of fresh air. Those are the best precautions you can take against serious sickness.

Keep Musterole always handy on your bathroom shelf. You can buy it at any drug store.

35c and 65c, in jars and tubes. Hospital size $3.00.

ATTEMPT TO IMPEACH WITNESSES' STORIES IN OBENCHAIN TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—The state was expected Wednesday to close its case against Mrs. Madalynne C. Obenchain, on trial for the murder of J. Belton Kennedy, broker, her former sweetheart.

Among the final witnesses for the prosecution was expected to be Mrs. J. D. Kennedy, mother of the dead man, and shortly after she had told her story to the jury, the state was expected to rest and the defense to begin its efforts to prove Mrs. Obenchain innocent of the crime with which she is charged jointly with Arthur C. Burch.

The efforts of the defense, at first will follow the paths of attempted impeachment, it is stated. Seventeen witnesses, it is said, will be summoned to try to impeach the testimony of Mrs. Elizabeth Besamy, a resident of Beverly Glen, near here, where the slaying occurred, and of C. S. Sumner, who declared he had seen Burch in an automobile near Santa Monica shortly afterwards.

From the attempt at impeachment, the defense is expected to swing to the major portions of its case, reaching a climax when Mrs. Obenchain goes on the witness stand, as her attorneys promise she will.

There isn't any use in saving time unless you know what to do with it.

BRITAIN RESERVES RIGHT TO SAFEGUARD INTERESTS IN EGYPT

Lloyd George Announces Conditions, Attaching to Relinquishment of Protectorate

LONDON.—Prime Minister Lloyd George announced in the house of commons Tuesday afternoon that the Britain protectorate over Egypt has been terminated and that Egypt was free to work out such national institutions as might be suited to the aspirations of her people.

At the same time, he gave the terms upon which Egypt will have the opportunity.

Martial law will be abolished in Egypt as soon as an act of indemnity has been passed, he announced, explaining that martial law had been used, not to enforce the British policy but as a main instrument of government in the hands of the Egyptian ministers for certain important measures arising out of war conditions.

Must Observe Rules

Lloyd George said it was for the Egyptian government to pass the necessary legislation, "in the way of which we undertake to place no obstacle, provided the final clause of the government's declaration is duly observed."

The final clause defines the special relations between the government and Egypt and declares that the following matters are reserved to the discretion of the British government:

"First, security of the communications of the British empire in Egypt;

"Second, defense of Egypt against all foreign aggression or interference, direct or indirect;

"Third, protection of the foreign interests of Egypt and protection of minorities.

Warns Other Nations

"Fourth, we are prepared to make an agreement with the Egyptian government in a spirit of mutual accommodation when a favorable opportunity arises for the conclusion of such an agreement, but, until such an agreement, satisfactory to ourselves and to the Egyptian government has been concluded, the status quo will remain intact."

Lloyd George said it had long been recognized that the protectorate was no longer a satisfactory form of relationship between the British empire and Egypt but, owing to the peculiar geographical position of Egypt, it could not be terminated unless the British imperial interests were fully safeguarded.

The premier said that the welfare and integrity of Egypt was necessary to the peace and safety of the British empire and the government could not permit its special relations to be questioned by any other power.

ADVANTAGE RESTS WITH EAST UNDER PITTSBURGH PLUS

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—Eastern drop forge manufacturers frequently have out-bid concerns in this district due to an alleged advantage given them in buying Lar steel under the Pittsburgh plus system, according to testimony here Wednesday in the federal trade commission's investigation of this system.

KENESAW MOUNTAIN LANDIS A PRIVATE CITIZEN TODAY AFTER 17 YEARS ON BENCH

CHICAGO.—With a tear in his eye, but an unfaltering step, Kenesaw Mountain Landis on Tuesday walked out of the federal building a private citizen after seventeen years as United States judge for the northern district of Illinois. Starting on Wednesday, the famous jurist, who recently resigned, will devote his time to the position of baseball commissioner.

Judge Landis swung through the first part of his final day on the bench in characteristic fashion, disposing of nearly a dozen cases in the typically Landis manner which once caused a convicted bootlegger to refer to him as "that white haired hell cat in federal court," and a pardoned youth to term him the "whitest guy that ever talked to a fellow."

He fined one man one cent for tax dodging because, he said, "you've tried to be square," and slapped a $5,000 fine on the man's partner because he "hadn't played fair."

Surrounded by Memoirs

In the afternoon the judge sat in his chambers, amidst the debris of his departure, watching his personal effects being carted away. Busts of Lincoln, of Gresham—former secretary of state under whom the judge served as secretary—pictures of famous persons, the propeller of the airplane his son Reed flew in the war, a clock from his boyhood Indiana home and dozens of other mementoes surrounded him during the informal reception of hundreds of visitors.

It was in this surrounding that the air of the government official was swept away and tears trickled down the cheeks, not only of the judge, but of several of his visitors. Persons from all stages of life came to clasp his hand. Bank presidents and society leaders mingled with day laborers and occasionally a former prisoner at the bar, with whom the judge had been lenient.

Shows Greatest Emotion

The judge showed the greatest emotion when the federal building newspaper reporters presented him with a signed testimonial wishing him luck, saying that he was "taking the life of the old away," and that they would always remember him as an "honest-to-God man and a judge with the right kind of backbone."

After reading it, the judge swung his big chair around so the reporters could not see him and when he turned back five minutes later his cheeks and eyes glistened with tears.

"Oh hell," he said, "I can't thank you fellows. We've been too good pals and I just can't seem to talk. But I hope that each one of you knows, down in your heart, how much I hate to leave this building and you—but, no, I'm not leaving you fellows. We'll have our reunions and grow old together telling each other how we used to sit on the federal bench."

Bids Farewell to Bailiff.

The last person to bid farewell to Judge Landis was Joe Barchner, bailiff in the judge's first court. Buckner left his bed, where he was confined with pneumonia to journey through a snowstorm for his farewell.

"Why, Joe; Joe!" said the judge, "what are you doing here?"

"I just had to come to tell you goodby, judge."

"Why, I was just going to see you," answered the judge, "I wouldn't leave without telling you good-by. Now you put this muffler on and go back to bed."

The judge took his own muffler, put it on Buckner and rushed him away.

Judge Landis will leave in about ten days for a tour of the southern major league training camps, he said. His itinerary has not been completed, but it is understood it will include all the camps.

OPPOSING SENATORS FAIL IN EFFORT TO AMEND YAP TREATY

WASHINGTON. — The Yap treaty was ratified without reservation or amendments by the senate. The vote for ratification was 67 to 22.

WASHINGTON.—Futile efforts to attach amendments and reservations to the Yap treaty were renewed Wednesday in the senate with the administration leaders presenting a solid front against every proposed change or qualification and showing little disposition to reply at length to the continued assaults of the "irreconcilables."

More than enough votes to ratify were declared by the leaders to be assured. They felt equally certain that they could continue to command a majority against all amendments and reservations. In these circumstances, they declared they saw no reason to indulge in further argument for the treaty. Under a unanimous consent agreement a final vote on ratification is to be taken not later than 2 p. m. Thursday and some senators predicted that it might be reached Wednesday.

MRS. JONES WILL SPEAK ON MILK AT NORMAL THURSDAY

Mrs. Nellie Kedzie Jones of the College of Agriculture, University of Wisconsin, who speaks at 10:30 Thursday morning at the State Normal on "Milk", has not been heard in La Crosse since the Council of Defense days.

Mrs. Jones is always so full of enthusiasm and it may be said "pep" that she is a delight to hear. Her many friends in the city will be happy to take this opportunity to hear her again.

The Normal, besides Mrs. Jones' twenty minute talk, has prepared a play, "The Milk Fairies", and will present it. Normal children under Miss Wilder have practically worked out by themselves in the gymnasium a clever little playlet which they call "Magic of Milk", and will give it on the program Thursday.

This meeting is the only big open meeting to be held in connection with Milk Week. Community Council and club members of all organizations are invited to attend.

NUMBER OF AUTO LICENSES BEHIND THAT OF LAST YEAR

MADISON, Wis.—Just 155,000 automobiles and some 15,000 trucks have been licensed by Secretary of State Elmer S. Hall so far this year. This is about 60,000 less than were issued during 1921. A staff of automobile license inspectors are now working through the state to pick up those who have failed to secure their new licenses.

A large number of applications are expected when the roads open in the spring and other machines are taken from storage garages for summer use.

quite an impression on one's mind showing that health, power and morals are built with milk and its use as a food. The great thinkers of today are men and women who use quantities of dairy products.

And now that the rural schools have had their talks there is a joke which you should hear. Monday one of our well known citizens took a speaker down through Shelby and then on to Coon Valley making the most outlying school in the county, North Timber Coulee. It was late, the day was intensely cold but the enthusiasm about milk was running high. A great desire to have no school missed urged the driver on and when the car reached town and a check was made on schools visited—Lo! Vernon county had received a perfectly good useful, practical La Crosse county milk talk in one of her rural schools down near Coon Valley.

SENTENCE MORO PIRATES

MANILA, P. I.—Two Moro pirates, Lollo and Sarao, were sentenced, respectively, to death and imprisonment for life Wednesday by the supreme court for a piracy committed nearly two years ago in the region of the Dutch East Indies.

ELKHORN, Wis.—When Fred McBride, who is alleged to have confessed the slaying of Edwin Thielen, whose body was found in Miracle creek near Palmyra, last December, is taken into court Thursday to answer the charge of murder, he will repudiate his confession and enter a plea of not guilty, it was reported Wednesday. MAYOR LINES UP COUNCIL AGAINST U. D.

of a depot are aware of the fact that it will be located on Mill street."

"We want to show other cities of the state that La Crosse can take a definite stand against the railroad commission holding up such an important decision for five years, and if they have held the decision to accommodate some few, we want to know it. I want this council to demand a decision on the matter so that we may know," the mayor said.

Mr. Bentley seemed particularly angered by a recent editorial which appeared in The Tribune. He read it, and when he came to a prediction in it that the mayor would come home in time to "crack the whip" for his union station resolution, he pointed out that he had missed but one council meeting during his period of office.

"Are you going to say, aldermen, that I ever called you to my office to ascertain how you intended to vote on any particular matter before it was brought up on the council floor?" he shouted. "Every fight I have made," he said, "I have made on the council floor." He added that the article was an "insult to you aldermen and it is your duty to aid in securing a daily paper which will represent you."

Refused to Help

Following the conference held at the La Crosse club, the mayor stated that Mr. Brayton came to his office asking for aid in straightening out the union depot matter, but he refused any aid inasmuch as the council had no part in the proceedings of the "secret conference", he said. In closing the mayor cautioned the aldermen to ascertain the expense to the city and location of the station "before you unreservedly go on record for a union station."

The city attorney explained that the city at the present time is merely acting in the capacity of a petitioner, and a referendum on the question in the city would be of no value until such station had been ordered by the commission, thereby placing a burden of expense on the city. He explained that until the city has been apportioned part of the expense of building a station, the city is merely a petitioner for or against the matter, as the case may be.

Regarding proposed street improvements for the coming year, the council adopted a resolution requesting the board of public works to receive alternative bids for work on all streets recommended by the council to be paved in 1922. The bids were for asphalt macadam with natural asphalt; asphalt macadam with manufactured asphalt; bituminous concrete with natural asphalt and bituminous concrete with manufactured asphalt.

People Dislike Macadam

The council informally discussed the various forms of paving to be used in connection with the street improvement program here this year. Petitions and requests, it was said, have been made in various localities where improvement is ordered for asphalt concrete rather than asphalt macadam. It seemed to be the general opinion of the council and interested citizens that asphalt concrete paving was preferred to the macadam.

A billiard and pool license and Class "B" liquor permit was granted to Louis Tally, at 209 Pearl street, by the council. A resolution was passed asking that bids be received for the auditing of the city books, together with another providing the expense of additional clerical hire in the treasurer's office during the months of March and April.

GOTHAM PUBLISHERS END DISPUTE WITH PRESSMEN'S UNION

Printers Finally Accept Wage Award of Court; Seek Modification of Order

NEW YORK.—The controversy between the publishers of the daily newspapers of New York city and the Web Pressmen's union over the arbitration award of Federal Judge Martin T. Manton, has been ended, Don C. Seitz, manager of the New York World, announced after a publishers' meeting Wednesday morning.

Morning newspapers appeared in abbreviated form Wednesday because of the controversy, which arose from the pressmen's wage arbitration award made on February 22 by Judge Manton of the United States court of appeals. A meeting of members of the newspaper pressmen's union No. 25, the local organization, called Tuesday night, did not adjourn until so late Wednesday morning that the publishers were forced to print eight page papers, eliminating practically all advertising and special news features.

The meeting, which was reported to have been a stormy one, resulted in the union agreeing to abide by Judge Manton's award, but it was decided that a committee be appointed to negotiate with the publishers in an effort to effect a modification of the ruling's terms.

The union members were ordered to return to work.

The decision handed down by Judge Manton fixed $53 and $45 as pay for day pressmen in charge, and journeymen, respectively, and $54 and $48 for night pressmen in charge, and journeymen.

MAY CLOSE BEAVER SEASON BECAUSE OF VIOLATIONS OF LAW

Situation Especially Bad in Ashland and Douglas Counties Reports Barber

MADISON, Wis.—That the beaver season may be closed by the conservation commission as result of violations of the law is a probability according to Mr. W. E. Barber, chairman of the conservation commission.

"Because of the heavy snows that have made travel by automobile impossible for our wardens we have had an unusual number of violations of the trapping law," said Mr. Barber Wednesday. "The situation in this respect in Ashland and Douglas counties is especially bad. We have had numerous complaints of beaver houses destroyed contrary to the law and a sense of good sportsmanship as well.

"When spring comes our wardens will investigate the beaver situation in these northern counties where the season was opened this year. If it appears that much damage has been done by this lawlessness we shall probably close the season for the future."

Some 972 trapping licenses for beaver and otter have been issued by the conservation commission this year. In addition close to 9,000 pelt tags have been sold. The season will close the last of this month.

AMERICAN FLEET BROUGHT TO ANCHOR BY LACK OF FUNDS

WASHINGTON — The American navy was virtually brought to anchor Wednesday by action of the house appropriations committee in cutting the requested appropriation for naval fuel from $12,000,000 to $6,282,685. Plans were immediately made by the navy department to stop all steaming of warships, the craft to remain where they are until additional funds became available through transfer.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—American citizens get just about the kind of government they deserve, Elizabeth Hauser of Gerard, Ohio, director of the fourth region of the National League of Women Voters, told Wisconsin members of that body here Wednesday at their convention.

"It's not good enough to satisfy the best and most intelligent citizen" she said, "and not bad enough to profit the most venal as they may desire. We get average government corresponding to the average quality of our citizenship. And that average is compounded of the worst and best, the middling good and the middling bad."

WINONA GRATEFUL FOR VISIT BY LA CROSSE DELEGATION

Expresses Appreciation for the Crowd Which this City Sent to the Carnival

That citizens of Winona appreciated the friendly visit of a delegation of La Crosse citizens, in carnival costume, during the carnival in that city last Friday, is evident from a letter received by Chairman Harry O. Williams from Mayor E. S. La France. The letter follows:

"Mr. H. O. Williams, Chairman Winter Carnival Committee, La Crosse, Wis.

"Dear Mr. Williams: Expressing for our citizens, as well as the committee in charge of Winona's Winter Carnival, our deep appreciation for your friendly visit made to us yesterday, and regretting the circumstances due to the elements, that did not permit the carrying out of the program, as originally planned, it is our hope that we may in the future reciprocate the splendid spirit, which your citizens have shown in helping make our event a success.

"Winona is happy in the thought, that it has for its near neighbor, a people who are always ready and willing to extend the right hand of fellowship, and assist in the carrying out of events calculated to aid in the progress of our cities. May frequent intercourse of our citizens occur. With the advent of the good roads, which will soon connect the two striving downriver cities, there is no question but that better acquaintance and fraternal feeling will develop thereby.

(Signed)

"E. S. LA FRANCE,
"Mayor City of Winona."

Chats With Your Gas Man

The other day a friend said to us: "Why should you advertise? You get all the gas business there is."

We are glad he asked this question. Perhaps you, too, would like to know why. Here is our answer:

It is not sufficient that we merely give good service, be courteous and make friends. We want to dispel prejudice and misunderstanding from the minds of the public by continually stating the facts about our business.

We believe it our duty to let the public know the real nature of our business and the aims and ideals of the men engaged in that business. There is no mystery about it, nothing that we would wish to cover up. Then why not advertise it?

Like the man on the witness stand we can say: "It's the easiest thing in the world to tell the truth when there is nothing but the truth to tell."

WINONA HIGH HERE FRIDAY NIGHT TO BATTLE LA CROSSE

Winona Expected to Come Back Strong After Defeat on Home Floor

The Red and Black tossing quintet intends to hand out a trimming to the Winona basketeers at the Hixon gym next Friday night, when that aggregation comes here to play the return game of the season. At the first of the season the Winonans were defeated by La Crosse high by a close score. Winona has a fast team which includes an expert long-shot man and two strong guards. They made La Crosse step lively on their home floor and will no doubt quicken the pace when they meet the locals here.

Keegan's squad has shown good development since the first games of the schedule, as was demonstrated in the hotly-contested Madison game a few weeks ago. La Crosse displayed the same fight in the last two struggles, resulting in close scores at the end of both. Coach Keegan will evidently work hard before the Winona game to insure a successful outcome.

The coming game will be another "hair-raiser" without a doubt, as Winona is sure to come back strong after one defeat at the hands of the local quint. The bleachers which were installed for the Madison game will again be set up to accommodate a large crowd. Those who witnessed the battle with the Capital city can expect to enjoy themselves as greatly if they see this game with Winona.

Instead of there being only five senses as we usually think, there are probably as many as 15. Four distinct senses, for example, are found in the skin. These are heat, cold, pain and pressure. What we usually call touch is a combination of these sense qualities.

A. B. C. DOUBLES AND SINGLES ARE STARTED TODAY

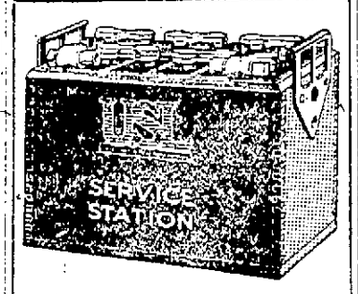

TOLEDO, Ohio.—Doubles and singles in the American Bowling Congress tournament started Wednesday with Toledo bowlers in action.

There was a single exception, however, in the entry of W. Ott, of La Crosse, Wis., which was placed on today's schedule at his own request.

Scores in the five-men division continue low, the highest to date being 2,556.

Tonight is another three squad night, this being made necessary by the heavy entry list.

NINE DOG-TEAMS ARE ENTERED FOR 200-MILE DERBY

Indian Driver Takes Lead at Start of Race; Pressed Closely for First Place

THE PAS, Man.—Nine drivers Wednesday were mushing their dog teams along the Carrot river trail in the fifth annual Le Pas 200-mile dog derby for a purse of $2,500. Reports received here early in the day were that Sam Pranteau, Indian of Grand Rapids, Man., was struggling to maintain his lead over the Dupas-Dancroft and C. B. Morgan teams. Pranteau went out in front at the start of the contest Tuesday at 11 a. m. and had not been headed at last reports reaching here.

At the fifty-mile mark, these three teams had pulled away from the rest of the field, although the other six were said to be making good progress. The trailers are taking it comparatively easy. They do not possess the speedy dogs of the leaders and their hopes are pinned on the possibility of the pace-makers weakening through over-exertion.

If the racers maintain the average of previous derbys, they should finish about seven or eight o'clock Wednesday night.

The 1921 derby was won by Morgan in 82 hours and 30 minutes. Pranteau finished fourth in this event, making the distance in 40 hours.

KID MALOY WILL MEET BOXERS AT 133 RINGSIDE

Kid Maloy, ex-service man recently discharged from the Walter Reed hospital at Washington, D. C., dropped into La Crosse and expressed his desire as an old ring man to take on any boxer in the city of La Crosse at 133 pounds.

The Kid claims he followed the ring sport for fifteen years prior to his enlistment in the service in 1916. During his service in the army Maloy engaged in several bouts and now intends to follow it up. He says he is personally acquainted with Sheriff Ed Miller at whose office arrangements for bouts may be arranged.

What Happened to 'Em

An observant Boston matron was speaking in condemnation of the flirt to a young girl of her acquaintance.

"The flirt," said she, "has a good time in the present—a sort of good time, according to her view—but what about the future, my dear? Many a girl is on the shelf today because she kept men on the rack yesterday."

YOU can buy a very good suit, "Tailored to Measure by Born," at a price you will agree is entirely fair.

Just now, we are showing some particularly good values at $30 and $35—dependable new weaves in all the favored colorings. It will pay you to see these cloths before you buy.

You'll find the completed garments fully up to your expectations—money back if you are not satisfied.

STRONGHEART—RIVOLI

The Rivoli Theater promises an unusual treat for followers of the silent drama in its offering, "The Silent Call," which will be shown at the theatre starting Thursday.

Three factors stand out prominently to give this picture its unusual appeal. One is the beautiful outdoor scenery, all the scenes having been taken in the High Sierras of Northern California. Another is the story, unique for its quick action and rapid succession of climaxes. It was filmed from Hal G. Evarts "The Cross Pull," which ran in The Saturday Evening Post. The third feature is the introduction of Strongheart a Belgian police dog, as a star on the American screen. This canine, who was brought to the country for the special purpose of playing in "The Silent Call," is said to display remarkable acting ability and intelligence. He is said to be the first dog to hold a starring part on the American screen and his eminence in this respect is said to have been due entirely to his capability in measuring up to the role Jackie Coogan's remarkable picture "My Boy" closes at the Rivoli today.

HOBART BOSWORTH—MAJESTIC

Oriental architecture with all its bizarre beauty raised to the Nth degree on the screen—that is what Thomas H. Ince has accomplished in "The Cup of Life," which closes at the Majestic.

The scenic effects, both interior and exterior are notable for their magnificence and their fidelity to Oriental structures, decoration and landscape. Several weeks prior to the filming of the first scenes of the drama, a staff of Chinese and Japanese artists, authorities on their native architecture, were engaged to draft plans for the many impressive sets which appear in the production. Exquisite gardens, temples, and residences were constructed on the stages of the Ince studios. The expensive silken tapestries and hangings with which the scenes are decorated were secured from Chinese merchants in a number of Particular cities, while much of the furniture was either imported direct from the far east or specially constructed by the Chinese Cabinet Makers.

VIOLA DANA CHILD OF THE THEATER

Viola Dana, who will be seen at the Strand in "There Are No Villains," made her first public appearance at the age of five years as a solo dancer. At fifteen she was a Broadway star in "The Poor Little Rich Girl." Her newest picture, "There Are No Villains," is a Bayard Veiller production for Metro of Frank R. Adams's story.

AT THE CASINO

Beau Brummels of the screen beware! A new best-dressed-man-of-the-screen has appeared upon the horizon. Gareth Hughes has been picked by sartorial experts as the most likely candidate for this oft-bestowed title. But it must not be imagined that Hughes is one of your formal matinee idols; he prefers low, soft collars, tweeds and knickerbockers. "I simply dress as I feel," is Hughes's way of explaining his choice of garments. Mr. Hughes is star of "The Hunch," which will be seen at the Casino today.

AT THE RIVIERIA

One of the most mammoth scenes ever attempted in any motion picture production was made during the production of "The Son of Wallingford," which will be shown at the Riviera theater today. It is predicted that this scene will set new standards in this respect. It shows a real fake of burning oil with the hero and heroine of the story trapped in the center of it in a small boat. The scene is a fascinating one to watch on the screen and weeks were required for its preparation.

A MAN
—a splendid man among strange men. A figure of power in this great love drama of the wilds.
JOHN BOWERS.

From Hal G. Evarts' Saturday Evening Post story "THE CROSS PULL".

The motion picture public have demanded a different picture HERE IT IS--

It's--One--Terrific--Drama

Strongheart, the wolf-dog, isn't a mere actor, but a killer, as primitive as any lean pack-leader that ever prowled the wilds, when he leaps to the call of the girl! . . . . . .

Through the drama of human and the drama of wild beasts surges a tide of emotion, thrill and amazement such as few other pictures can give.

STATE TAKES OVER OLD HICKORY GAME REFUGE MARCH 16

New Preserve of 763 Acres Established by State Near Beaver Dam

MADISON, Wis.—Wisconsin game reserves are of the greatest importance in the opinion of W. I. Barber of the state conservation commission, who recommended the establishment of the Old Hickory refuge. The new refuge consisting of 763 acres just east of Beaver Dam will be taken over on March 16, 1922, by the Wisconsin state conservation commission.

"Wisconsin has established several wild life refugees. They are the only places where game and foul are safe at all times, because neither fishing nor hunting are allowed on the reserves at any time. We hope to be able to conserve useful species of animals and foul that are dying out in the state," explained Mr. Barber.

The Old Hickory refuge for wild life contains several acres of marsh lands and wooded acres, and a fine trout stream flows through it. The state will plant quail and other wild life in the refuse, and the Beaver Dam Rod and Gun club is expecting to plant several kinds of pheasants there.

The Wisconsin state conservation commission, which has control over all laws pertaining to the wild life of the state, was created in 1915. At present it has charge of the various state parks, forest reserves areas, fish hatcheries, and public lands which cover a total area of more than 207,000 acres.

These wild life refuges have been established in several counties in the state. Forest county has two game 000 acres; Douglas county 6,000 acres; Douglas county 6,000 acres; Barron county, 7,000 acres; Richland, 400 acres; and Trempealeau has a county game refuge of 1,800 acres.

All varieties of game native to Wisconsin are protected in the refuges. Among the animals, in order of their numbers, are the muskrat, skunk, weasel, mink, ermine, raccoon, fox, wolf, badger, bear, marten, wildcat, opossum and beaver.

The refuges of game and wild foul are considered of such great importance by the members of the biological survey of Washington D. C. that they are attempting to have congress pass a statute providing for the purchase of lands by the federal government in various states as refuges for migratory foul. According to Mr. Barber, probably much Wisconsin land would be considered, since Wisconsin together with Michigan and Minnesota has more wild birds and game than many other states.

MOTORS REACTIONARY

Early Strength Sacrificed in Later Trading; other Stocks Strong

NEW YORK—Fears of an early money flurry, due to March first payments, were groundless, call loans opening at 4½ per cent on the stock exchange Wednesday. Equipments, independent steels and motors and their subsidiaries continued to move forward with shippings. Gains of 1 to 3 points were made by Kelsey Wheel, Crucible, Replogle, Vanadium, New York Air Brake, Pierce Arrow preferred, Stewart-Warner, Stromberg, United States Rubber and Kelly-Springfield. Mexican and California Petroleums and Standard Oil of New Jersey furnished the stronger oils. Except for Texas and Pacific and Canadian Pacific at gains of one point and 1½ points, Rails were apathetic.

Reduction of the short interest in the motors rendered them sensitive to pressure and vigorous selling carried down Studebaker, Chandler and Pierce Arrow issues one to two points from their earlier highest. Mantime the equipments, leathers, sugars and public utilities shares crept steadily upward, New York Air Brake gained five points in American Locomotive and Porto Rico Sugar four, National Cloak and Suit 3¼, Burns Brothers "A" 3, and Columbia Gas 1¾.

The short interest in the stock market hurriedly covered its contracts at the opening of the session as many popular issues made early gains of one to three points. Leaders of the advance which was stimulated by the further rise of British exchange, included Gulf, States Steel, prominent equipments, oils and several of the rails, notably Canadian Pacific. Sugars and Food specialties extended Tuesday's substantial gains, National Biscuit rising three points. Market Street Railway, preferred, was the only reactionary issue, falling 1½ points.

WHEAT PRICES RALLY

Early Setback Overcome in Later Trading; Other Grains Easier

CHICAGO, Ill.—With snow on the ground over practically the entire domestic winter crop territory Wednesday, and with lower quotations from Liverpool, the market here showed a material setback in prices during the early trading. It was pointed out also that the United States visible supply of wheat was larger than a year ago. An upturn in values at Buenos Aires, however, tended to check declines here. The openings which varied from ⅜ to 1½c lower, with May $1.46½ to $1.47 and July $1.22¾ to $1.23¼, were followed by slight further losses and then something of a rally.

Subsequently, bullish estimates of farm stocks of wheat failed to stimulate much buying. As a result many traders shifted to the selling side of the market, and caused pronounced weakness in prices. The close was unsettled 3¼ to 3⅝c net lower with May $1.43¾ to $1.43⅞ and July $1.20¾ to $1.21.

Corn and oats were easier with wheat. After opening ⅛ to ⅜c lower, May 67¼ to 67⅜c, the corn market weakened a trifle further.

Later, notwithstanding announcement that demand for corn during the winter was largest on record, the corn market underwent a noticeable setback in price, duplicating the action of wheat. The close was nervous, 1⅜ to 1½c net lower, with May 66⅛ to 66¼c.

Oats started unchanged to ⅛ to ⅜c down, May 42¼ to 42⅜ to ½c, and then held near to the initial range.

Provisions reflected downturns in the value of hogs.

CATARACT FARMERS DISCUSS PLANS FOR A LIME CRUSHER

If Guarantee of 2,000 Tons is Made Outfit May be Installed this Fall

SPARTA, Wis.—At the Farmers' institute at Cataract last week the matter of installing a lime crusher on the ridge between Cataract and Sparta was discussed, and the farmers were asked to guarantee a certain amount of stone, to some individual, to warrant buying a crushing outfit. It was thought necessary to guarantee at least 2,000 tons, in order to make it profitable for any one to install the crusher, and of this amount, 600 tons were signed up for. The county agent, E. L. Liddle, points out the fact that it would be a great saving to the community, for at present limestone is costing about $3 a ton, and $1.20 of this cost is for freight. He also states that if there was a local crusher, it would allow each individual to go to the quarry and get a load of lime, at any time whenever he wanted it. If the farmers of western Monroe county will sign up for the 2,000 tons of lime a crusher will doubtless be installed in the fall.

HORSES ARE BEST FOR THEIR BUSINESS ICE MEN ARE TOLD

PEORIA, Ill.—Horses and horse drawn equipment have a decided advantage over any type of motorized equipment yet devised when it comes to delivering ice. Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the Horse Association of America, said Wednesday in an address before the Illinois-Wisconsin Ice Dealers' association here.

"Horses will save money for ice dealers because of lower initial cost," he said, "less expensive operation, longer life with consequent lessened depreciation, and because the intelligence of the horse makes it possible for him to learn a route quickly and to move from place to place without attention from his driver."

JUSTICE JONES OUT FOR RE-ELECTION TO BADGER HIGH COURT

Choice of Supreme Court Justice Only Vote of State-Wide Interest in Spring Election

FOUR CIRCUIT JUDGES TO STAND FOR RE-ELECTION

City, Superior and County Judges also to be Chosen

MADISON.—The choice of a Supreme court justice will be the only vote of statewide importance at the spring nonpartisan judicial elections, April 4 of this year, Elmer S. Hall, secretary of state announces. Four circuit judges, four municipal judges, three superior court judges and three county judges will be chosen in addition.

Justice Burr W. Jones is to stand for re-election as a member of the state supreme court for the term ending January 1, 1926. This will necessitate his running again in that year for the regular ten year term of a supreme court justice.

Edward T. Fairchild, judge of the sixth branch of the second judicial circuit in Milwaukee is to stand for re-election. Other circuit judges who are to be chosen by voters in their respective circuits are:

Wilbur E. Hurlbut, judge of the third judicial circuit comprising Calumet and Winnebago counties; Michael Kirwan, judge of the fourth judicial circuit comprising Manitowoc and Sheboygan counties; and Charles M. Davidson, Judge of the thirteenth judicial circuit comprising Dodge, Ozaukee, Washington and Waukesha counties.

Municipal Judge Fred S. Kinsley of Barron county will stand for re-election together with Municipal Judge Henry M. Fellenz, of Fond du Lac county. Two new judges will be chosen for the municipal courts created under special acts of the 1921 legislature by the county boards of Burnett and Price counties.

Judge A. C. Hoppmann, senior judge of the Dane county superior court is out for re-election, while a junior judge will be chosen to fill the office created by the 1921 legislature. In Douglas county, Judge Archibald McKay will stand re-election for the superior court of that county.

County judges will be named in Jefferson county to succeed John C. Conway who will stand for reelection, in Kenosha county to succeed Robert V. Baker, who will stand for re-election and in Richland county to succeed P. L. Lincoln, who is to stand for re-election.

Secretary of State Hall says that publication of the election pamphlets lets provided for by the last legislature is held up until the 1921 statutes are published. He is trying to have them issued in time for distribution to election officials before the spring vote.

Election blanks, bags for holding ballots, and special return forms are being sent from his office today.

THIRD MONTH

March, month of winds, is welcome because spring begins the 21st.

As the Lenten season prevails, few social affairs are held in March. Few holidays occur this month. The most important is St. Patrick's day, March 17.

March 4 will mark a year's administration under President Harding.

Before 1752 A. D., March was the first month of the year in the Roman calendar, the legal year beginning on the 25th.

The month was dedicated to the Roman god, Mars.

BREWERY PROPERTY SEIZED ILLEGALLY HOLDS JUDGE LUSE

MADISON, Wis.—Property of the Prairie du Chien Brewery company, seized recently by the United States marshal for the western district of Wisconsin on claims that intoxicating liquors were being manufactured, was ordered returned without delay by Judge Claude C. Luse, of the U. S. district court here, in a ruling late Tuesday.

BILLS BEARING FACE OF WASHINGTON IN DEMAND IN MOSCOW

MOSCOW.—An exceeding faith is shown in the name and picture of George Washington, since the scramble for foreign moneys began here a few days ago. Money-changers refuse to take any checks and the American cash they accept must bear the engraving of George Washington. Such bills they call "Washingtons."

The reason for this is that local dealers have in earlier times accepted Canadian bills at the same face value as American bills, later to discover that there is a difference of some 12 per cent in the two moneys, Dollars fluctuate in value from 500,000 to 556,000 rubles.

FARMERS FROM FOUR COUNTIES UNITED IN EGG MARKETING PLAN

Elimination of the Middle Man Purpose of Co-operative Project

MADISON, Wis.—The co-operative marketing of eggs is proposed by farmers of St. Croix, Polk, Burnett and Barron counties who already have taken action to form a selling organization through consolidation of local co-operative units, the state department of markets announced Tuesday.

Based on information gathered by the department of markets through an investigation extending from last fall, the farmers of these counties met recently and determined that definite steps should be taken do work out a practical marketing association.

A committee composed of D. H. Thompson, county agent of Burnett county; John Klinka, county agent of Polk county; Walter Duffy, county agent of Barron county, and A. W. Knott, county agent of St. Croix county was appointed to draw up a plan of organization.

This plan will be submitted to a central committee consisting of one member from each co-operative creamery board or co-operative unit in the interested districts. The committee men will be expected to put the accepted plan into working operation.

The farmers expect that through the co-operative marketing of their eggs they will be able to dispose of their products more advantageously with the elimination of the middleman. They are to follow the general plan of co-operative marketing organizations of the state.

Several Birds With One Stone

A Virginia editor threatened to publish the name of a certain young man who was seen hugging and kissing a girl in the park unless his subscription to the paper was paid up in a week. Fifty nine young men called and paid up the next day, while two even paid a year in advance.—The Labor Clarion (San Francisco).

Dandruff Surely Destroys The Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.
